Take Home Maundy Thursday

You are invited to worship at home or in small groups this Thursday evening, April 14. We have prepared a Maundy Thursday service for your home use. Copies are available in the information area in the foyer. If you'd prefer a digital copy of the service, please contact Christy in the church office. May we all experience the Spirit's presence with us this Holy Week.

Good Friday Service

We will gather together for worship and reflection on Friday April 15, 7-8 PM. The service will include scripture, singing, prayer and time for silent reflection. We will conclude the service by sharing communion. All are welcome.

An Easter invitation

Next Sunday, April 17 as part of our worship time, we will all together sing the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's Messiah. Two singers from all four voice parts will be on the stage facing the audience as a means of support. Dot Smith will accompany on the piano, I will lead. Today, Palm Sunday, you will find copies of the piece on the table at the back of the sanctuary. If you wish to, you can take a copy along to "practice" in the privacy of your home. Finding a recording of it on YouTube or Spotify or any other format you are accustomed to using should be very easy. To those who are very familiar with this piece, do not feel neglected if you have not been asked to join the group up front. Your voices are very important in supporting those around you in the congregation who are not as familiar with the piece, so sing out, don't hold back, and if you are able, place yourselves strategically within the larger group to best be heard. There will be various levels of familiarity with the piece represented among us, but it is likely that most, if not all, of us will be able to join in at various times. Please feel free to sing all of it, or just the parts of it you are more familiar with, or just simply listen. And please don't be afraid of making mistakes as we together make our way through this glorious piece of music written by George Frederic Handel in the year 1741. Hallelujah! The kingdom of this world has become the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ.
